

upon his own experience of foreign travel, and on his close connection with the incoming traveller who so frequently calls on him for information, and it will be a pleasure to assist any visitor in every possible way within his power on their writing, or calling at the "Colonist Building," Reid Street, Hamilton.

One subject on which considerable uncertainty seems to exist is that of supplies of meats, groceries, etc. No question need arise on this head, as the numerous opportunities by rapid steamers between New York and Bermuda, as well as between Halifax, N. S., St. John, N. B., (Canada), and London, England, enable the merchants to offer full lines of the choicest grades of American, Canadian, English and Continental goods, of fresh importation, and at reasonable rates. Natural and artificial ice can be had the year round—the former imported and the latter manufactured locally by two firms. Meats offered for sale are freshly killed; poultry, fish, and shell meats are in plentiful supply as a rule; fruits and vegetables are abundant in their varying seasons—the banana, of home grown fruits, being the most plentiful. So far as clothing is concerned, local stores carry full lines, and many visitors purchase extensively, finding it economical to do so, because of the choice grade of English and other goods from which to select.

Amusements.

POSSIBLY no other place in the world than Bermuda can offer to the visitor so many pleasures, enjoyable all the year round. The climate is such that outdoor sports and pastimes may be enjoyed from January 1st to December 31st—the principal being yachting, boating, swimming, fishing, cycling, driving, riding, tennis, cricket, golf, baseball and football. Aquatic pastimes are a special feature of life in Bermuda and yachting may be said to be the favorite. During the past five years there have been ocean races for small yachts between the United States and Bermuda. An ocean race also takes place annually for motor boats.
